Salem College
Winston-Salem, N.C.
1983-1984
Volume 62

Life at Salem is both unique and special. We live in a small community in itself, centered around the Old Salem square. It is a rare opportunity to be able to study for the future in such a historical setting that is a constant reminder of the past.

However, Salem can only provide the channel through which we are given the opportunity to grow as individuals. It is up to each student to develop independently with respect to academic challenges and leadership abilities, as well as to value special friendships that will join our tomorrows with today. Knowing that you will soon be a part of Salem's past, cherish all that it has given you and in turn, use this experience in your future endeavors.

"If you have anything valuable to contribute to the world, it will come through the expression of your own personality — that single spark of diversity that sets you off and makes you different from every other living creature."

Wisdom is knowing what to do next, skill is knowing how to do it, and virtue is doing it

This is the beginning of a new day. I can waste it or use it for good. What I do today is important because I am exchanging a day of my life for it. When tomorrow comes, the day will be gone forever — leaving in its place something I have traded for it. I want it to be a gain not a loss; good, not evil; success, not failure, in order that I may not regret the price I paid for today

The highest reward for man's toil is not what he gets for it, but what he becomes by it

Contrary to the opinion of many people, leaders are not born
Leaders are made, and they are made by effort and hard work

Vince Lombardi

Knowledge is a comfortable and necessary retreat and shelter for us in an advanced age, and if we do not plant it while young, it will give us no shade when we grow old

Nothing lasts longer than a happy memory. To give someone a memory keeps you close when you're apart!

Jayne Dolton Litzenburg

She has been a surrogate mom; she has been a friend. She can be regal and she can be down to earth. She has come to mean a lot to the Senior class. This lady has become an integral part of our Salem experience in the two short years she has been here. She has brought to the Class of 1984 wisdom, guidance, support, and above all, she has been a true friend. This woman has surpassed all of our expectations as the President's wife. Rather than adhering to this traditional role, she has taken the extra step to touch each one of our lives in her own special way. Our one regret is that she was only here for two of our four years.

In return for all that she has done for us, and to show our love and appreciation, we, the Class of 1984 dedicate this year's Sights and Insights to Mrs. Jayne Dolton Litzenburg.

Members compete in five different levels according to their ability. With each ribbon received, one accumulates points. Points are received on an individual and team basis. The team attends about nine horseshows each year. After these shows, members then have an opportunity to qualify for the Regionals and Nationals.

This past year, Salem hosted its first Intercollegiate Horseshow at Crazy Fox Farm, owned by Salem's coach, Lee Trotman. The horseshow was a success, and Salem plans to make this a tradition.

Thank You!

We, the Class of 1984 would like to recognize three professors who will retire this year after a collective service to the Solem community of 82 years. Professor Emerita Mary S. Hill, Professor of Philosophy, leaves after 24 years of distinguished teaching. Professor Emeritus Robert L. Wendt, Professor of Sociology, retires this year after 29 years, and Professor Emeritus William B. White, Professor of English, also retires after 29 years of dedicated service to Salem. Thank you for all that you have done for us and many other generations of Salem alumnae.

Dr. Mary S. Hill

Mr. Robert L. Wendt

Dr. William B. White

Dr. Thomas V. Litzenburg, Jr.

The Academy and College have survived because they never have lost faith in the vision of their founders. We are today what Sister Oesterlein and the Moravian brethren first conceived — a community of students and scholars set apart for the purpose of serious learning.

Liberal education, we can and we do dream dreams and find within ourselves the wherewithal to turn them into realities. What liberal learning can give us, vocational training will never provide. And what a fragile world wants and needs, only liberal education has the right to promise. Those who say otherwise have learned none of the lessons of liberal learning.

To understand Salem's past is to envision its future — for what we have striven to become we most surely will continue to be. Our history is no less our destiny. Distinguished as Salem clearly is and exceptional as its students certainly are, our commitment to educate women of talent and promise requires that we adhere to ever more rigorous standards in determining who is worthy of the education this place affords. Excellence knows no limits and it is our responsibility to acknowledge this and act accordingly. To think or do otherwise is to fail to understand just how far Salem has come in two hundred years. ~

Editor's Note

I am having mixed emotions now as I am finishing a project that I have worked on for almost a year. The 1984 Sights and Insights has been a huge undertaking that has certainly had its share of problems, but I am pleased with what my staff has accomplished. The book represents the efforts of many different people and their varied talents. They have all been wonderful and I hope they know how much I appreciate everything they have done.

There are several people that I have to thank for helping me keep going this year. First, Steve Nohlgren has been a super advisor and I don't know how I would have made it without his good-natured support. Becky Pack and Dean Johnson have been such good friends and have solved countless problems. I want to also thank my parents for listening all the times that I have called home and done nothing but complain about all of my "yearbook problems". And finally, I want to thank all of my good friends and especially my roommate, Elizabeth Woodbury, for all of the love and support that they have given me everytime that I have been depressed about this book and thought I would never get it done.

Thank you for giving me the chance to be editor, because it has done as much for me as I have done for it. I am proud of this 1983-1984 Sights and Insights and hope that all of you will be too.
